

From April 1st, 2026, bicycles will be subject to the traffic violation notification system

When police officers see a bicycle traffic violation, they will most likely give guidance or a warning. However, if a violation is particularly dangerous and causes serious risks to pedestrians or other vehicles, the offenders will be subject to criminal prosecutions.

The following are examples of traffic violations which could cause the issuance of traffic tickets (Blue tickets).

Ignoring traffic lights
6,000 yen

Ignoring a stop sign
5,000 yen

Driving on the right side of a road
6,000 yen

Using a cell phone while riding
6,000 yen

Going through a railroad crossing after the gate has dropped.
